Today's Guest Speaker: Dr. Joe Carnley

Please join me in welcoming today's Guest Speaker Dr. Joe Carnley who will share with us "Tips For Success."

A northwest Florida native, Dr. Carnley has resided and practiced dentistry in Destin, Florida for 31 years. Born and raised in Paxton, Florida, he attended and graduated from Paxton High School, and then went on to undergraduate school at Western Carolina University on a basketball scholarship. With a double major in chemistry and biology, he left Western Carolina to pursue a career with DuPont as a research chemist. After working with DuPont for two years, Dr. Carnley applied and was accepted to the University of Louisville Dental School. After graduation, he spent two years in the Air Force at Norton Air Force Base, California in an internship program and then moved back to northwest Florida to begin his dental practice.

As a young man, Dr. Carnley had the advantage of learning lifetime leadership skills and discipline from his small town high school teachers and a basketball coach who took his young team of players to several State Championships. Here Dr. Carnley learned the basic principles of teamwork, human relationships, hard work and discipline that have brought him success in life and business. Along the path from basketball champion to successful motivational speaker and instructor, Dr. Carnley has sharpened these skills by involving himself in Dale Carnegie leadership and management programs and the L.D. Pankey Institute.

With 17 years as a Dale Carnegie instructor and facilitator Dr. Carnley brings years of training and experience to any business or educational environment. He is an exciting communicator with the ability to combine leadership skills and human relationship principles that motivate, excite and enthrall his audiences.

Though practicing full time, Dr. Carnley is currently an associate faculty member at the L.D. Pankey Institute in Key Biscayne, Florida and a professor at the University of Florida. He instructs numerous Dale Carnegie Courses each year and makes presentations and holds workshops on the local, state and national levels. He has consulted for numerous corporations and organizations that include the nationally known Compu-Serve Company and National Cash Register Company. He is also currently involved with several universities working on a leadership program for athletes at Florida State University, University of North Carolina and Western Carolina University.

WHAT PAUL HARRIS SAID

"It is not the purpose of Rotary to make social, religious or racial composites of its members. Rotary brings business and professional men differing in social status, religious beliefs, and nationality to gather in order that they may be more intelligible to each other and therefore more sympathetic and friendly and helpful."

A Whale of a Rescue — The Rotarian July 2007

NEST's Sikorsky S-76A helicopter can carry two pilots, four medical attendants, and two patients on stretchers

Because of a little help from the Rotary Club of Whangarei and six other clubs in New Zealand's Northland region, Lindsay Wright can tell the tale of the day he was 112 miles off the coast of New Zealand napping in the bunk of his trimaran yacht when he heard a loud crack. He jumped out of bed and found himself up to his knees in water that was pouring through a 3-foot-wide hole in the bow. He ran up to the deck and saw a whale perpendicular to the side of his boat. Then five more whales began swimming extremely close.

Wright's first thought on that January day was that they were going to finish him off, but he soon changed his mind. "It was a powerful emotional experience," he says, "having six huge mammals looking at you. I had a feeling of empathy from them, as though they were saying: 'Oh, no. What have we done? How can we help?' I had an overall sense of goodwill from them."

The yacht had been going slowly when, Wright surmises, it accidentally hit and startled one of the whales. He figures that the whale instinctively dived, causing it to flick its powerful tail and damage the hull.

Wright immediately tried to call for help, but his radio was waterlogged and out of range. So he activated the vessel's emergency position-indicating radio beacon, which emits a distress signal to a satellite system that relays it to a receiving station on the ground. Computers then determine the vessel's location, and a rescue crew can be dispatched.

Wright's signal reached Northland Emergency Services Trust (NEST), a nonprofit in Whangarei, New Zealand, that performs free land and sea rescue missions and emergency medical airlifts with two helicopters. The donation-funded NEST sent out a chopper that had equipment to track Wright's signal.

The US$4,800 equipment was courtesy of New Zealand Rotarians. The Rotary Club of Whangarei and six other clubs in New Zealand's Northland region donated about $2,900 to buy the gear, and a trust established by a Whangarei club member supplied the balance.

By the time the helicopter arrived to rescue Wright, waves were starting to wash across the boat, the weather was deteriorating, and it was getting dark. An exhausted Wright stood clinging to the mast. The rescue team lowered a winch with a harness and hoisted him up.

"Believe me," Wright says, "that helicopter was a welcome sight."

Send questions about NEST to John Bain.
