Da teline Rotary International.... New Class of Rotary World Peace Fellows Announced

(Evanston, Ill., USA — 1 July 2007) Amid today's headlines of war, suicide bombings and ethnic and religious violence emerges some welcome positive news: Rotary International has named a new class of World Peace Fellows to study peacemaking and conflict resolution at the six Rotary Centers for International Studies.

Launched in 2002, this innovative approach to world peace is a master's level program aimed at equipping the next generation of government officials, diplomats and humanitarian leaders with skills needed to reduce the threat of war and violence. The Rotary World Peace Fellows are selected every year in a globally competitive selection process based on their professional, academic and personal achievements.

The Rotary Centers are located on the campuses of leading universities in five countries: International Christian University, Japan; Universidad del Salvador, Argentina; University of Bradford, England; University of Queensland, Australia; University of California, Berkeley; and — in a shared arrangement — Duke University and University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Like the members of the five classes preceding them, the 60 students in the 2007-09 class are a diverse group, representing 32 countries and a wide array of professional and cultural backgrounds. Their interests and areas of expertise include public health, education, international law, public policy, economic development, journalism, and social justice.

"Both as researcher who seeks to understand the origins of violence in order to prevent it, and as practitioner who seeks to work at grass-root level in conflict situations, I want to be involved in bringing about a more peaceful world," says Luke Fletcher (Fellow from Sydney Australia), who since embarking on his thesis about the Rwandan genocide has become an active volunteer with the Rwandan and Burundian Association raising funds for genocide orphans.

"You have only to pick up a newspaper to realize how vitally important it is that our world leaders be skilled in the arts of conflict resolution and peaceful negotiation," says Luis Giay, chairman of The Rotary Foundation. "Everything we do through our Rotary Clubs — from fighting poverty to eradicating polio — is intended ultimately to promote world peace. What better way to contribute to that effort than by helping to develop future world leaders committed to achieving peace and understanding."

The program is already showing results. Dozens of Rotary Peace Fellow alumni are making a difference in jobs within the United Nations, the World Bank, governmental agencies and international non-governmental organizations where their skills are tipping balance in favor of peace and conflict resolution.

Rotary is the world's largest privately-funded source of international scholarships and has more than 30,000 Rotary clubs in over 200 countries and geographic regions. What You Missed Last Week...

At the last week's meeting Dentist Dr. Joe Carnley provided an inspirational talk about overcoming a critical life threatening virus. Joe spoke fondly about his family and the power of pray and how that helped him conquer a debilitating bout of encephalitis. Joe also stressed the importance of positive thinking.

Thank you Joe for such a warm and personal message.

EMAIL SCAM TARGETS ROTARIANS

The Rotarian—June 2007

Unfortunately a recent e-mail scam, and some other forms of Internet fraud, have been targeting Rotarians and misusing Rotary information.

The latest e-mail scam, brought to RI's attention by Rotarians who received the messages, is an e-mail that falsely claims to be from the International Computer Users Fellowship of Rotarians. The sender of these e-mails claims that the recipients won a raffle and that all winners are asked to donate 10 percent of their prize to a Rotary project. It also claims the best project will receive a prize from The Rotary Foundation.

RI is aware of these schemes and encourages Rotarians to be vigilant about deleting any e-mail that appears suspicious. Rotary International does not solicit funds via e-mail, nor does it request that personal information be updated via e-mail or other electronic means.
